Cookie Policy

What are Cookies?

Cookies are text files containing small amounts of information which are downloaded to your device (e.g. computer, mobile phone etc) when you visit a website. Cookies are then sent back to the originating web domain on your subsequent visits to that domain. Most web pages contain elements from multiple web domains so when you visit nerisafety.com your browser may receive cookies from several sources.

Cookies are useful because they allow a website to recognise a user's device. They allow you to navigate between web pages efficiently, remember preferences and analyse how you use websites and online services. They can also be used to tailor advertising to your interests through tracking your browsing across websites.

Why do we use cookies?

- To analyse trends;
- To administer services;
- To remember your preferences;
- To track users' movements around our website;
- To gather demographic information about our user base as a whole;
- To enable you to navigate between webpages more efficiently;
- To help us understand how our website is used so we can improve it; and
- To record information about your visit to help target advertising and content specific to you.

The purpose for each cookie we use is set out below.

What types of cookies do we use and how long will they stay on your device?

We use the following types of cookies: necessary cookies, analytics cookies, functional cookies and marketing cookies. Each type of cookie has a different purpose, as described further below.

- Some cookies are set by us (known as first-party cookies).
- Other cookies are set by another organisation's website (known as third-party cookies). For third-party cookies, we do not have access or control over these technologies. We do not tie the information gathered by third parties to our client's or users' personal information.
- A cookie can either be a session cookie or a persistent cookie. A session cookie is stored temporarily on your computer or device while you use the website and is deleted when you close your internet browser. A persistent cookie remains on your computer or device after you have closed your browser, so we can remember if you have visited our website before or your preferences. The period of time a persistent cookie stays on your computer or device varies and is set out below.

Managing cookies

You can change your cookie preferences by adjusting the available sliders to 'on' or 'off' within the 'Manage cookies' section of the cookie banner. You can also manage your cookie preferences whilst browsing through our website by clicking on the widget located on the left-hand side of the webpage. You may need to refresh your page for your settings to take effect.

Most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. We list the names of the cookies themselves, their source at the date of this Cookies policy and the cookie type so that you can easily identify and disable them if you want through your browser controls.
