3. Why we need your data and how we use it?

To use/process your personal information, we need to have a good, lawful reason – this is what we call a "legitimate legal basis." It's like having a set of rules that say it's okay for us to collect and use your data, but only in certain ways and for specific reasons. Here's how it works.

- When you say it's okay (Consent): If you tell us we can use your information for something, like sending you newsletters, that's a green light for us.
- To fulfill our agreement with you (Contractual Necessity): When you buy something from us or sign up for a service, we need to use your information to deliver what you've asked for. This could be sending your purchase to you or providing access to a service.
- Because the law requires it (Legal Obligation): Sometimes, we're required by law to use your data in certain ways, such as for keeping financial records or complying with legal requests.
- When we have a good reason (Legitimate Interests): If we have a fair and necessary reason to use your data, like to improve our services or to ensure our website is secure, we might go ahead. We balance our interests with your rights to ensure your privacy isn't unfairly impacted.

For every piece of personal information we collect and use, we have a clear reason – purpose – for doing so. It's like each time we ask for your data, we need to tell you exactly why we need it and what we're going to do with it. This makes sure that we're always transparent with you and that we use your information responsibly.

But that's not all. Along with telling you why we're using your data (the purpose), we also need to make sure we have a legal right to do it (the legal basis). It's like having both the reason and the permission to use your data in certain ways.

In the table below, we break down exactly what data we may use, what we're doing with your data and why, along with the legal basis for each activity. This way, everything is clear and transparent, and you can feel confident knowing exactly how and why your information is being used.

1. HOW DOES OUR CHATBOT WORK?

1. As mentioned above, our AI-powered chatbot is designed to answer your questions and provide quick and useful information about our products. During the interaction, it does not access or display your name and account details, if any. Instead, you are identified internally by a randomly generated identification number, which helps to ensure your privacy during the conversation.

Furthermore, to continuously improve the performance of our chatbot, we may use previous conversations for training and refining the AI model. Before doing so, all personal data shared during the interaction is deleted or anonymized so that individual users cannot be identified.

4. How do we share data with others?

We want you to know that your personal data is in safe hands with us. There are times when we need to share your information with other trusted parties to provide you with our services or to meet our legal obligations. But don't worry, we're very selective about who we share your data with and ensure it's always protected.

Here's a quick look at who might need access to your data and why:

- Financial and Legal Partners: This includes banks, insurance companies, and our advisors in financial, tax, legal, and accounting matters. They help us manage our business responsibly and securely.
- Training and Development Experts: Sometimes, we work with specialists to enhance our team's skills and services, which means sharing information to tailor training programs.
- IT & Security Service Providers: These are the tech wizards who keep our systems running smoothly and safely. Sharing data with them means you get a better, more secure experience.
- Corporate Changes: If we're involved in a merger, acquisition, or sale, data might be transferred as part of the business assets, but we'll always keep you in the loop.
- Distribution Partners: To ensure the products you order reach you quickly and safely, we share necessary details with our distribution partners. This collaboration helps us streamline the delivery process, making sure your products are on their way to you without any hitches.

And, of course, if the law or public safety requires it, we might need to share information with public authorities or governments. But even then, we'll only share what's absolutely necessary.

Your trust is important to us, so we promise never to sell your personal data or use it for anything like cross-context behavioral advertising. Your privacy is our priority, and we're here to keep your data safe while providing you with our best services.

5. International Data Transfer

Due to our company's multinational nature, the data we process about you may be transferred to or accessed by BUNZL, our affiliates, and trusted third parties from different countries around the world. Your personal data may be moved to a country other than where you live if it's needed for the purposes we've mentioned in this Privacy Notice. We're serious about protecting your rights during these transfers. That's why we only send your personal data to places where:

- The European Commission has decided there's an adequate level of data protection. Please find the list of countries here: https://commission.europa.eu/law/law-topic/data-protection/international-dimension-data-protection/adequacy-decisions\_en
- There are strong safeguards in place for transferring your personal data, such as:
  - Standard Contractual Clauses;
  - Codes of conduct;
  - Certification mechanisms;
- Or, if the transfer is allowed under the data protection laws that apply.

We make these international transfers to continue providing you with the best possible services, no matter where you or we are in the world. You may find the countries we may transfer your data, in appendix 2.

Finding Out More

We believe in transparency, so we've put together a detailed list of all the processors and partners we work with. This list is regularly updated to reflect any changes, ensuring you have the most current information at your fingertips. You can find this list by visiting our website.

6. WHEN WILL MY DATA BE DELETED?

We will store your personal data as long as is necessary for the purposes named in this Privacy Notice, especially for the fulfilment of our contractual and legal obligations. We may also store your personal data for other purposes if or as long as the law allows us to store it for particular purposes, including for defense against legal claims.

If you close your customer account, we will delete all the data we have stored regarding you. If it is not possible or necessary to completely delete your data for legal reasons, the relevant data will be blocked for further processing.

If data is blocked, restriction of access rights and other technical and organizational measures are used to ensure that only a few employees can access the relevant data. These employees may also only use the blocked data for the above purposes (e.g. for submission to the tax office in the event of a tax audit).

Blocking will occur, for example, in the following cases:

- Your order and payment details and perhaps other details are generally subject to various legal retention obligations, The law obliges us to retain this data for tax audits and financial audits for strictly specified periods of time. Only then can we finally delete the relevant data.
- Even if your data is not subject to any legal retention obligation, we may refrain in the cases allowed by the law from immediate deletion and instead carry out initial blocking. This applies especially in cases where we may need the relevant data for further contractual processing or prosecution or legal defense (e.g. in the event of complaints). The decisive criterion for the duration of the blocking is then the legal limitation period. After the relevant limitation periods expire, the relevant data will finally be deleted.

7. HOW WE KEEP YOUR PERSONAL DATA SAFE?

Your privacy and the security of your personal data are of utmost importance to us. We're committed to protecting the information you share with us. To do this, we've put in place a variety of security measures aimed at preventing your personal data from being lost, misused, accessed without permission, changed, or disclosed.

Here's what we do to keep your data safe:

- Robust Security Practices: We use state-of-the-art security measures to ensure your data is handled securely.
- Limited Access: Only staff, agents, and contractors who really need to know your information for business reasons can access it. They're all trained in data protection and understand the importance of keeping your information secure.
- Ongoing Vigilance: We continuously monitor and update our security practices to tackle new and evolving threats.

We want to remind you, though, that no system is 100% secure. While we do everything we can to protect your data on our end, there's always a risk when data travels over the internet. We encourage you to be mindful of this and take your own precautions to protect your information online. Unfortunately, we can't be responsible for any data breaches that happen outside of our control.

Remember, your security is a team effort. If you have any questions about how you can help keep your data safe, or if you want to learn more about our security measures, please don't hesitate to get in touch. Your peace of mind is our priority.

8. Your rights

Under certain circumstances, by law you have the right to:

- Request access to your personal information (commonly known as a “data subject access request”). This enables you to receive a copy of the personal information we hold about you and to check that we are lawfully processing it.

- Object to processing of your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground. You also have the right to object when we are processing your personal information for direct marketing purposes.
- Request the restriction of processing of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of personal information about you, for example, if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.
- Request the transfer of your personal information to another party.
- Right to human intervention. If the personal data is being used to make automated decisions about you as the data subject (e.g., profiling), you have the right to be told what logic the system uses to make those decisions and to be able to request human intervention to override any such automated decisions.

~~The use of our AI powered chatbot does not result in any automated decision making that produces legal or similarly significant effects on you. In any case, you may always request to speak directly with a human representative instead.~~

If you submit a data subject request, we will respond within 30 days, unless the complexity or volume of requests necessitates an extension. In such cases, we may extend our response time by up to two additional months and will notify you of this extension and the reasons for it within the initial 30-day period.

If you want to review, verify, correct or request erasure of your personal information, object to the processing of your personal data, or request that we transfer a copy of your personal information to another party, please contact us.

Please note that some of these rights are subject to certain limitations or exceptions. Any requests will be assessed on a case-by-case basis. You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal information (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request for access is clearly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.
